

September 20th, 2018

Dear Quest families,

I am excited to share with you Quest Academy has shown unparalleled growth on the Nevada School Performance Framework (NSPF), a five-star classification system for public schools in the 2017-18 school year. Quest has been identified as a 3-star (56 points) for middle school and a 2-star (48.5 points) for elementary school. Since the 2016 report card, our middle school score increased by 22.5 points and our elementary school score increased by 29.5 points. This is among the largest improvement on the NSPF for schools. Our elementary campus was just 1.5 points shy of the 3-star rating.

The NSPF measures academic performance of Nevada public schools. Among these measures are academic proficiency and growth on state assessments, English language proficiency for students for whom English is a second language, and chronic absenteeism. In the 2017-18 school year, Quest results indicate improvement over every indicator on the report card.

We have high expectations for student achievement and growth and are working to improve every students 'performance. We are using the results of our report card to guide our efforts this year and continue implementing the research-based best practices we launched last school and were responsible for the remarkable growth we made. Our goal is for both campuses to demonstrate the exponential growth again this year as we improve our rating scores.

As always, we encourage your involvement at Quest and provide many opportunities for parent input into the academic and social aspects of our school. We value your input and support as we recognize that Quest is a school of choice, and we work diligently to ensure it is your best choice. Your student also has the right to attend a zoned school.*As parents, you are your child's first teacher. Together we support each other as we work toward common goals of preparing our students for their future.

If you have any questions regarding the information in this letter or your child's progress, please contact either myself or any member of the school's administration.

Respectfully,

Janelle Veith
Principal/Lead Administrator

4025 N. Rancho Drive
Las Vegas, NV 89130
Office: 702-631-4751
Email: j.veith@questlv.com

*Zoned schools: Reed Elementary (1-star school), Parson Elementary (1-star school)

*For more information visit the NSPF website (nspf.doe.nv.gov)